

EQUALITY IMPACT ASSESSMENT FORM

Equality impact assessment is a requirement for all strategies, plans, functions, policies, procedures and services under the Equalities Act 2010. We are also required to publish assessments so that we can demonstrate how we have considered the impact of proposals.

	possible chance to successfully care for their baby.          Greater flexibility in the market for care at home for children and young people with disabilities.          Specialist workforce who can meet a range of needs including autism, learning disability and physical disability. Empowering whole families to respond to changing needs with confidence.          Specific 'Lots' which allow a range of traditional and more creative providers to access the framework, aligning to our ambition to work in an innovative way to achieve the objectives set out in the council's priorities and the Children and Young People's Plan.          Significant financial efficiencies achieved through new ways of working which reduces the number of children in care.          The benefits of this process will be that the views of service users and providers (via the consultation events and survey) can be used to inform the tender process and the future service specification, resulting in the residents receiving a service that best meets their needs and outcomes.
Could there be a different impact or outcome for some groups?	Anticipate that the new service will provide much needed support to families who need additional help in order to function in a safe and supportive way. This will give children and young people the opportunity to live in an environment where they are loved and well looked after. It is well documented that outcomes for children who live in a stable home environment and benefit from secure attachment are much better than for those who have experienced care, particularly when that care is disrupted.          This service will offer something different to children on the edge of care, or those who can step down from care to be reunified with their family.          By addressing the issues that are reported by the existing providers, we can improve the offer to children with disabilities as the framework will be designed to ensure that providers are supported to meet demand. The new framework would extend the current offer whilst maintaining and improving the support that is currently offered to children with disabilities. The existing Lots would be refreshed in order to address identified gaps in current provision, including at-home support for children with autism. A resilient network of providers will offer a graduated response to need which can respond to complex care requirements whilst also offering early intervention and support to minimise the need for more intensive / high cost support, and on some occasions preventing entry into care. There are potential impacts for the fostering and residential market as one of the primary desired outcomes is to reduce the number of children in care by strengthening families. Combined with the recent commissioning of Children's Homes, this could create a reduction in demand for external residential or fostering providers, however this is very low risk as currently we are experiencing sufficiency issues which result in a lack of available placements.

Does it include making decisions based on individual characteristics, needs or circumstances?	Decisions will be made based on needs - this will be done at point of referral. Service users will be put in contact with the appropriate service. The provider of the new service will ensure access to services by individuals and will consider the needs of specific groups to ensure that disadvantage does not occur.
Are relations between different groups or communities likely to be affected? (eg will it favour one particular group or deny opportunities for others?)	The framework targets children and young people who we know have additional vulnerabilities, either due to safeguarding and welfare concerns, learning disabilities, parental capacity, physical disabilities, mental health needs or autism. The approach is innovative and engagement will ensure that we understand 'gaps' in services and can use this framework to respond to identified need. Therefore no groups will have opportunities denied and the framework will be developed on an inclusive model.
Is there any specific targeted action to promote equality? Is there a history of unequal outcomes (do you have enough evidence to prove otherwise)?	Provider(s) to evidence in their equality and inclusion plan. There is a requirement in the contract for the new provider(s) to reach those who are currently under-represented. This service aims to continue improved access to those with additional needs. Any contract holder will be expected to comply with all relevant legislation and Cheshire East Council policy and procedures including equality legislation. Ongoing monitoring during the delivery of the services will be designed to encourage providers to work together to share developed opportunities or issues raised.
