- 10.1 In 2010, Cheshire East Local Authority began a process of reviewing its arrangements for children and young people with Special Educational Needs and Disability (SEND).
- 10.2 The key drivers of the review are:
- concern with addressing a number of issues raised by stakeholders,
  - compliance of statutory responsibilities against the backdrop of a national radical recasting of services for SEND,
  - limitations of the range of specialist and resourced provision,
  - Individual Pupil Funding (IPF),
  - lack of a clearly stated SEND policy,
  - assessment pathways and,
  - the implications of the Green Paper 'Support and Aspiration' ( A new Approach to Special Educational Needs and Disability) March 2011.
- 10.3 The aim of the SEND review was to address the drivers set out above, address challenges, identify and formulate priorities for improvements in the effectiveness and efficiency of provision for children, young people with SEND and their families.
- 10.4 The LA has a general responsibility to promote high standards for all pupils, including those who have special educational needs and disability. The aim of the SEND policy is to describe the provision of support for children/pupils with SEND within the LA.
- 10.5 Underpinning the SEND Policy is a national framework, which provides guidance as to the way in which the LA and local partners will implement the policy.
- 10.6 The framework includes:
- The United Nations Educational Scientific Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) Salamanca Statement (1994) which reinforces the notion that all pupils should attend their local community mainstream school “unless there are compelling reasons for doing otherwise.”
  - The Disability Discrimination Act 1995, which aimed to end discriminatory practices faced by many disabled people.
  - The 1996 Education Act, which made provision for the publication of the SEN Code of Practice, designed to give education providers guidance on the identification and assessment of children and young people with special educational needs.

- The 1997 Government publication “Excellence for All Children – Meeting Special Educational Needs” which sets out a strategy for improving the standards for pupils with SEN
- The 1998 publication “Meeting Special Educational Needs – A Programme of Action” which, in conjunction with the 1999 Disability Rights Task Force Report “From Exclusion to Inclusion”, reinforces the rights of all pupils to be educated in mainstream schools
- The Special Educational Needs and Disability Act (2001), which amended the Disability Discrimination Act (1995) to make it unlawful for education providers to discriminate against disabled pupils, students and adult learners. As a result, education providers must make reasonable adjustments to ensure that disabled people in education do not suffer a substantial disadvantage in comparison to their peers who are not disabled. Part 1 of the Act strengthens the rights of children and young people with special educational needs to be educated in mainstream settings. The Act also requires schools and LAs to plan strategically to increase access to education.
- The revised SEN Code of Practice , which takes account of the Special Educational Needs and Disability Act (2001) and “provides practical advice to Local Authorities, maintained schools, early education settings and others on carrying out their statutory duties to identify, assess and make provision for pupil’s special educational needs.

10.7 The publication of the government’s Green Paper, ‘Support and Aspirations: A new approach to special educational needs and disability’, marks the start of a period of consultation and testing in local areas from September 2011.

10.6 The Government will set out detailed plans by the end of 2011, which will form the basis for the legislative changes which will be taken forward from May 2012 at the earliest. The SEND policy reflects the main themes and ethos of the Green Paper.
